The Hunters Resting

marquetry

Natural wood veneer

Dimensions: 930 x 1,230 mm / 36.6 x 48.4 inches

The painting shows people coming back after a hunt.
They are tired a bit and have decided to share impressions and traditional hunting stories.
On the foreground, one can see the brave hunters' take.
One of them has shot a duck, and the other, a hare.
One of the friends is sitting in a dark coat, he is slightly leaning forward and telling the others something passionately.
Another hunter is lying on the yellowing grass.
He is listening to the story, and looking at his friend a bit incredulously.
The third hunter believes the story entirely, he is listening very closely, even leaning forward slightly.
A dog not used to rest is running nearby.
She has heard something, and is ready to continue hunting, even without her master.
On the background, a vast field with yellow grass is stretching under the sad autumn sun.
Against the sky, shadows of birds cannot attract the hunters' attention anymore.
The painting is slightly comic, as it is clear that one of the hunters is boasting with old achievements which never really existed.
The painting is full of optimism and spirit; it improves the viewer's mood, and he wants to do something good.
